Rosa Pope honored as Officer of the Year

RALEIGH – Rosa Pope of Odom Correctional Institution in Jackson has been recognized as a Department of Correction Officer of the Year for 2011.

Officer Pope plays a key role in team development and keeping morale high at Odom Correctional. She has been vital to the success of the mentoring program by providing positive feedback to staff and offering them follow-up assistance.

Pope also organized a successful fundraiser for a staff member's family, who had lost all their belongings in a house fire. Pope continued to assist the family in finding another residence.

She has successfully spearheaded the prison's State Combined Campaign for several years.

She attended Roanoke-Chowan Community College and has been with the Department of Correction since 2002.

The award was present in a ceremony on June 13 in Raleigh.
